'Unify Germany!' Urges Byrnes, Baring U.S. Policy

TOP OFFICIALS HEAR ADDRESS BY SECRETARY

Unprecedented Talk Reveals American Viewpoint on Territorial Claims.

STUTTGART — (AP) — Secretary of State James F. Byrnes urged today the early establishment of a centralized German government, rejected France's claim to the Rhineland and Ruhr and warned Russia that the United States does not consider Germany's eastern boundary fixed on the Oder.

In an unprecedented speech regarded as the most important American foreign policy pronouncement since the end of the war, Byrnes outlined a broad plan for eventual unification of the German people under a national council which, he said, should be charged with drafting a federal constitution for a "United States of Germany."

At the same time Byrnes made plain the intention of the United States to continue indefinitely her interest in European affairs and emphasized that "security forces probably will have to remain in Germany for a long period."

City Gaily Decorated.

The secretary addressed an audience of German and Allied leaders in this seat of the German provisional government for the American zone. The city was gaily decorated with flags. For security reasons, the military police detachment was strengthened to four times the normal size.

While emphasizing the determination of the United States to see Germany rise again as a peaceful, centralized nation, Byrnes rejected French claims to the Rhineland and Ruhr and warned Poland and Russia that America does not consider Germany's eastern boundary fixed on the Oder.

Territories now occupied by Poland and Russia were "provision-

PARENTS LISTEN: Supt. W. L. Miller (left) explains the overcrowded conditions that resulted in an order for fifth and sixth grade pupils in Western avenue school to attend school half-a-day and study at home the other half. At right, some of the nearly three score parents who attended a mass meeting in the school listen attentively as one of them expresses his views.

Keep Half-Day Schedule At City Grade School

By MARGUERITE MILLER

Western Avenue fifth and sixth grade pupils are going to have half-day sessions, and parents, pupils and teachers, alike, are going to have "to do their best in the emergency," W. L. Miller, superintendent of Mansfield schools, told nearly 60 parents who assembled at the school last night to protest the half-day order.

What had all the earmarks of being a heated session of irate parents versus the school board cooled off following "some statements of facts" on the situation by the superintendent. In a not-so-quiet forum of parents following the superintendent's talk, opinions on the new half-day system seemed to be divided.

Most of the protesting parents wanted to know why work on the Western avenue school addition hasn't been started. Others asked about transferring some of the children to nearby schools. However, when Principal Jesse Clark asked how many parents wanted to send their children out of the district, only two or three hands went up.

Representing the 105 pupils enrolled in the overcrowded fifth and sixth grades at the school were 48 parents who filled the seats in the fifth grade classroom and six or seven who stood during the hour-and-a-half session.

The meeting was called by the parents Wednesday when children were told they would attend classes half-days in order to take care of the overflow of pupils.

Prefers 'Leggers To State

COLUMBUS—(INS)—The head of the Ohio Women's Christian Temperance Union today was on record as preferring bootleggers to a state liquor monopoly system.

Miss Mary B. Ervin, of Columbus, re-elected president of the Ohio WCTU, told newsmen: "If anyone is going to be in the liquor business, I prefer it to be a bootlegger rather than my own government."

The WCTU convention adopted the slogan "take the state out of the liquor business."

Atlanta Gal Has Curves Plus Talent

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—(U.P.)—Green-eyed and blond Miss Atlanta, 19-year-old Janey Miller, who shared top honors in the initial bathing suit division, won last night's talent section as judging in the Miss America pageant entered the second round.

Miss Atlanta, who tied with Miss New York City in the bathing suit test Wednesday night, sang a classical number. She is the only contestant who has reached the top in both nights of the preliminary judging and she has already garnered enough points to place her among the 15 finalists tomorrow night.

Earlier, Miss Arkansas, 18-year-old Rebecca Jane McCall, was declared winner of the second-round bathing suit division. The brown-haired Blytheville, Ark., beauty was adjuged lovelist in competition with 15 other contestants.

DEMAND HALT

Chinese Communists Insist on 'Cease-Fire' Order.

NANKING —(INS)— Communist insistence on a cease fire order as a prerequisite to their participation in the newly-created five man committee to reorganize the Chinese government stalled efforts of American mediators in China today.

Continued reports of Nationalist successes on all fighting fronts underlined the Communist concern for ending the fighting.

Gen. Chou En-Lai, chief Chinese Red negotiator, conferred for three hours with General George C. Marshall and U. S. Ambassador J. Leighton Stuart but would not consent to Communist participation in the government.

STANDS PAT ON TRIESTE ISSUE

Britain Voices Opposition to Yugoslav Domination.

PARIS —(AP)— Great Britain warned the peace conference today that she would withdraw from the big four agreeemnt on division of Venezia Giulia if Trieste is not given a genuine "international" status as a free territory.

Charging that Yugoslavia is claiming "a very special position" in the administration of the disputed Adriatic port, British Delegate Hector McNeil said Britain would "reconsider the whole agreement" if Trieste's independence is impaired.

France, too, lined up with Britain in opposing Yugoslav claims to domination of Trieste, though in less unequivocal language.

Maurice Couve De Murville, the French delegate, said his nation would "insist on a free territory as the core of the whole situation."

McNeil warned flatly that "we'll honor our bargain but if the statute is so changed as to impair the conception of a free territory we will have to reconsider our whole agreement."

This was the first notice that any of the four-power foreign ministers council might not stand by their accords hammered out in 11 months of negotiations.

The British stand on the hottest territorial dispute before the Luxembourg palace conference was made in reply to demands by Slavic powers for Yugoslav domination of Trieste.

URGES CANCER PLAN

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio needs a statewide co-ordinated cancer control program and a 100 per cent increase in general hospital beds, Dr. E. P. McNamee of Cleveland, president of the Ohio State Medical association, told 300 Ohio health commissioners last night. The commissioners today conclude their 27th annual conference with the state health department.

125 MORE LOSE JOBS AT SHELBY

Employment Cut at Air Depot Follows One of 200.

Employment at the Parsel Air Supply depot at Shelby will be reduced by another 125 persons, effective Sept. 30, Lt. Col. S. H. Raymond, commanding officer, announced today.

This reduction follows one of 200 persons ordered recently by the war department in accordance with a congressional directive to the budget bureau. The directive instructed government department to absorb the cost of pay increases voted to civil service employes, Col. Raymond said.

Throughout the nation, the war department will reduce its civilian personnel by 53,079 by Oct. 1. It had 573,579 on the payroll July 1.

"An additional survey will be conducted by the plans and reports office of this depot and any additional cuts will be based on the present work load," Col. Raymond said. "All reductions in force are effected in accordance with civil service procedure and the law will be followed specifically."

Dropping the additional 125 workers will leave the depot with an employment roster of 802 persons, and compared to the peak load of 2,209 in February, 1944. On V-J Day, the depot employed 1,981 persons.

Board's Cautious Over Smith Rally

DAYTON—(INS)—The Montgomery county fair board demanded bonds today totaling more than $100,000 from the Ohio Farmers, Inc., for rental of the fairgrounds for a meeting Sept. 29 to be addressed by Gerald L. K. Smith, head of the "America First" party.

The board required a $25,000 indemnity bond against property damage and $15,000 to $100,000 liability bond against possible damage suits before renting the grounds for what the Ohio Farmers, Inc., described as a "patriotic meeting."

Thirsty Crops Promised Some Relief in Next 5 Days.

Thirsty crops were promised some relief today.

The weather bureau forecast showers in central Ohio tomorrow, Sunday and again Wednesday. It said temperatures will average about three degrees above normal, but Monday and Tuesday will be "quite cool."

Yesterday's high mercury reading, 81 degrees, was almost equaled at noon today when the thermometer registered 80 degrees. The minimum temperature this morning was 56.

Stough Named to Visit Europe's Farm Co-ops

W. E. Stough, Springfield township farmer, will leave Sept. 14 for the annual meeting of the International Cooperative Alliance in Zurich, Switzerland. Stough, a director of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation, will accompany a group of other Ohio farm leaders, including Murray D. Lincoln, secretary of the federation.

Before going to Zurich for the Alliance meeting, Oct. 7 to 10, the group will visit British and European co-ops, Lincoln announced today.

The group will sail from New York for Southampton, England. It first will visit co-ops in London, Manchester and Rockdale. It then will spend one day in Paris before flying to Berlin for a two-day tour, providing army approval is granted.

Others In Group.

Other Ohio members of group will be Mrs. Harold Robison, Ashtabula; George H. Dunlap, Cadiz; Everitt Rittenour, Piketon; James West, Perry; Perry L. Green, president of the Ohio Federation; Harry W. Culbreth, organization director, and Mrs. Lincoln, Mrs. West and Mrs. Culbreth.

After the close of the Zurich meeting, the party will tour co-ops in Denmark and Sweden. It will sail from Gothenburg Oct. 19 for New York on the S. S. Gripsholm.

Famed For Potatoes.

Stough, a 20-year member of the federation and for 30 years a Springfield township farmer, was one of Ohio's leading potato growers until his retirement. He gained wide recognition several years ago by growing 662 bushels of potatoes on one acre of land.

He is a former president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Cooperative association, and of the Ashland Production Credit association, and is now president of the Farm Bureau association of Richland county.

Although he has retired from active farming, his son, E. K. Stough still manages the old home farm on the Millsboro road.

Two Die, 11 Hurt In 4-Alarm Blaze

PHILADELPHIA —(U.P.)— Two men were burned to death and 11 other persons were injured in a spectacular four-alarm fire that swept through a central-city apartment house early today.

William Stokes, 26, was burned to death and Charles Krant, jr., 36, died several hours later in Graduate hospital of burns.

HEIRENS GETS 3 LIFE TERMS

Youth Stained With Blood of 3 Victims Escapes Chair.

CHICAGO —(U.P.)— William Heirens, 17, maladjusted college student who confessed the brutal murders of a little girl and two women, was expected to leave today for the state prison at Joliet for a lifetime in prison.

Heirens, whose amazing career of crime began at the age of nine with scores of sex-impelled burglaries, was sentenced yesterday to three life terms for murder and an assortment of other penalties on 28 charges of burglary, robbery, and assault.

Assistant state's attorneys immediately began preparing conviction and other necessary orders, and it was probable that by tonight Heirens would begin the prison sentence that will last for the remainder of his life.

In a last "press conference," the youthful slayer confessed that he had expected to die in the electric chair and said he was relieved that "it was all over."

He attempted, in confused statements, to explain the mental quirk that started him on the path to murder. He said he had hoped three psychiatrists who examined him might be able to help him, but he was "the same as I was before."

Seek Reason for Airliner Crash

ELKO, Nev.—(INS)—Civil Aeronautics officials sought today the cause of the crash of a transluxury airliner which killed 21 persons and left a two-year-old boy as the only survivor.

The tragedy occurred early yesterday on the barren Nevada desert five miles west of Elko. The chartered ship was en route from New York to San Francisco.

Ex-Service Men and Women Warned

Must Register to Vote In November

Board of elections officials today warned that many former service men and women of Mansfield and Madison township will be prevented from voting in the general election Nov. 5 unless they register with the board before Oct. 7, George C. Balliet, board chairman, explained.

"Because they were not required to register while in service many veterans believe they also do not have to register after leaving their military life. That's not true and we advise them to check with the board in the courthouse if they want to vote Nov. 5," Balliet said.

As listed by Harry Hawley, clerk of the board, the following persons in Richland county must register to vote:

To be eligible to register, a person must be a citizen 21 or over and have resided in Ohio at least one year, in Richland county at least 30 days and in his precinct at least 28 days.

Discharged service men and women who failed to vote in at least one of the last two general elections.

Discharged service men and women who voted by absentee ballot in either of the last two general elections.

All persons, veterans or not, who failed to vote in at least one of the last two general elections.

All persons who have changed their residence since they last voted or since they were properly registered.

All persons becoming of age since the last election.

Hawley said that persons who change their residence after the Oct. 7 registering deadline may still vote by casting ballots at the regularly scheduled precinct voting place in the precinct of their former residence.

The board of elections office will be open until 9 p. m. in order to give the "last minute" registrants a chance to qualify for voting," Hawley said.

Vessels Idle, Food Piles Up In Port Cities

Truman Faces Possibility of Calling Armed Forces to Operate Ships as Maritime 'Freeze' Threatens Wage Stabilization Plan.

WASHINGTON—(UP)—The worst maritime tie-up in the nation's history thrust before President Truman today the possibility of calling on the armed forces to man the troop supply and foreign relief ships stranded by the strike in every American port.

Leaders of the two striking AFL seamen's unions stood firm in their refusal to authorize operation of vessels loaded with millions of tons of supplies for relief and U. S. occupation troops abroad.

Their decision left only a handful of military vessels, army and navy planes and commercial airlines to handle America's normally gigantic outgoing traffic load.

The strike, called to protest a government wage decision, also threatened to wreck Mr. Truman's wage stabilization program. A high government official said the administration may be forced to relax wage controls immediately in order to settle the strike.

Emergency steps to resume the flow of essential cargoes were urgently studied by government experts as all signs pointed to indefinite prolongation of the walkout involving virtually all of the nation's 500,000 maritime workers.

The maritime commission reported that the strike had completely tied up all vessels in Pacific, gulf and east coast ports.

In New York alone the strike bottled up 238 American and 96 foreign ships. Three foreign vessels sailed ahead of schedule yesterday to beat the picket deadline.

Ships Still Arriving.

Incoming ships still were being handled in New York, however. They included the Wilson Victory, in from Bremerhaven with 1,476 troops.

UNRRA reported that 125 chartered ships in 15 ports had been immobilized. They were booked to carry 288,000 tons of food and other relief supplies to Greece, Albania, China and Italy.

More than 180 ships were tied up in six Pacific coast ports from Bellingham, Wash., to San Diego, Calif. The picture was the same in gulf ports.

The walkout, now actually in the third day, was called by the Sailors Union of the Pacific and the Seafarer's International Union, both AFL. It was in protest against a Wage Stabilization Board decision which disapproved negotiated pay boosts that were $5 and $10 a month higher than those won by CIO maritime unions.

With all AFL and CIO maritime unions supporting them, the two AFL organizations made it clear they would remain out until the WSB reversed its decision.

MEAT SCARCER, CEILINGS UP

New OPA Prices Set; Dealers Report Supply Low.

New and higher OPA ceilings on retail meat sales will go into effect Monday, but Mansfielders will be lucky to get meat.

OPA spokesmen said today that housewives will save "considerably" under the new controlled prices, estimated to be about 20 per cent higher for better grades than under the old regulations which went out with the collapse of OPA on June 30. The spokesman said that housewives have been paying more for meat without ceilings than they will pay under the new controls.

Local meat market dealers feared today however, that they might have to close down two or three days a week because of the "scarcest meat rations since June." A spokesman for the Kinkle meat market said that the store "might have to stay open only two days a week until the situation improves."

A Park Meat Market spokesman said that his store would be closed Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week because packers wouldn't promise any meat.

A spokesman for the U-Save market said that he "hadn't talked to a packer all week" and that the meat shortage was the "worst ever."

Retailers put the blame for the shortage on the farmers, who are reportedly holding their cattle now following establishment of wholesale ceilings.

"The farmers won't sell their meat now," one dealer said. "I'm getting 75 per cent less meat now than I got when OPA was off."

A. W. A. Kearns packing company spokesman said that the higher wholesale meat ceilings average from five to 15 per cent. He added that "meat is very scarce."

RIOTS CONTINUE

Monsoon Rains Fail to Halt Troubles in Bombay.

BOMBAY—(INS)—Sporadic rioting, despite lashing monsoon rains, continued in Bombay today with five persons reported killed and 25 injured.

The toll since last Sunday was placed at 208 dead and 640 injured.

Eleven cases of stabbing and several beatings were reported to police soon after the lifting of the all-night curfew.

AIR TRAFFIC GROWS

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Intercity passenger traffic at Cleveland airport broke all annual records in the first eight months of this year. Clearance Officer Roy Snell reported today that as of Aug 31, 768,451 passengers arrived at or departed from the airport for other cities. The best previous annual record was 762,993, set in 1945

A Home for Four Would Make Real This Vet's Dream

(In the hope Mansfield can find housing for some of the 400 veterans needing homes, the News-Journal is presenting daily one typical case.)

James P. Gills, who was at Pearl Harbor the day the Japs made their cowardly attack, served 27 months in the navy and dreamed of the spaciousness of home.

Those dreams have not become realities as yet. Gills with his wife and two children, aged two-and-a-half and six, have been living in a house which shelters 10, and no matter how you add, ten persons in one average size house adds up to crowding.

Since the first of the year, Gills has been conducting a relentless search for space—to relieve the hospitality of his parents with whom he and his family live at 450 West Fourth street as well as to find accommodations which he feels he and his family, like so many others, deserve.

Can someone make real the dream of space—a home for his family—which Gills has cherished for almost three years?

The Veterans' Information center (1730-6) will be glad to hear of a place that will make it possible for Gills to find his dream come true.

2500 Fans at Grid Clinic -- Watch Tygers Scrimmage

Hal Clawson

A protest against the use of a player by the Mansfield Grays in the Richland county baseball tournament last Sunday and Monday has been filed with Ralph Hardy, tournament manager.

The player in question is Russell Hoff, a pitcher for the Grays.

Filing the protest is Robert Carter manager of the Post 72 nine which absorbed a 5-1 defeat at the hands of the Grays in the semi-final game.

The letter states:

It is the purpose of this letter to file a written protest in the recent Richland county baseball tournament as we notified Ralph Hardy at the time, or before the game with the Grays, pertaining to their using Russell Hoff as a pitcher against our club, Legion Post 72, for the following reasons:

1. He should have been classed as a professional player as he has been playing professional ball in the South Atlantic league.

2. His name never appeared in any games played by the Grays previous to Aug. 20 as we have searched the News-Journal files.

1. He is not a resident of this county and therefore, was ineligible to participate.

Signed: Robert Carter.

Only rule covering the above case, as drawn up by the managers several weeks preceding the tournament, stated that all players must be residents of Richland county."

Whether or not Hoff is a professional will have no bearing on the case since it was a semi-pro tournament.

There was also nothing in the rules which said that a player had to appear in a team's lineup prior to the tournament.

In order to settle the protest, Hardy will call all the managers together next Tuesday night at his office in probate court for the purpose of ironing out the problem.

Only grounds for the Post 72 club to protest on would be that of deciding whether or not Hoff is a resident of Richland county.

Hardy has sent to each manager a financial report on the first annual county tournament.

Total receipts from collections taken up amounted to $275.47. Expenses totaled $161.22. That left $114.22 to be divided among the competing teams.

Vic Roberts, the crack Butler high basketball star, for the past two years, is all set to enter Ohio State university this fall. The Bulldog star is being counted upon for great things by the Scarlet coaches.

Officials, Coaches Organize

Joining forces to help promote better officiating and relationship between coaches and officials, the whistle tooters and grid mentors organized the North Central Ohio Officials and Coaches Association here Wednesday night.

Twenty coaches and officials met at Mansfield Senior high for the first get-together.

George Donges, Ashland college athletic director, was elected president of the association and Vere Smith, former faculty manager at Senior high, was elected secretary-treasurer.

Purpose of the association will be to foster better officiating in this part of the state.

Similar to organizations in other cities, the association will hold a meeting on Oct. 2 to discuss the numerous situations that will have arisen by that time.

These will be ironed out for the benefit of all officials and coaches and they will all know what to do if a similar play should ever come up in a game in which they are either officiating or in which their team is involved.

The association will be chartered at the Oct. 2 meeting and all members seeking to become a charter member must be present.

Those who don't will be known as associate members.

Donges served as rules interpreter for the meeting Tuesday night.

50,000 May See Browns' Open

CLEVELAND —(AP)—Cleveland gets its first peep at its new professional football team tonight as the Browns, coached by former Ohio State and Great Lakes mentor Paul E. Brown, open the first season of the all-America conference against the Miami Seahawks.

And it looked as if Cleveland, somewhat apathetic to pro football when the Rams of the National league held a franchise here, worked up considerable enthusiasm over its new team. A crowd of 50,0000 or more was expected to see the tilt in Cleveland Stadium.

The Browns, who defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers 35 to 20 in an exhibition game before more than 35,000 spectators at Akron last Friday, were rated 2 to 1 favorites over Coach Jack Meacher's smaller Seahawks. The Miami club, in its preseason exhibition, bowed to the Buffalo Bisons, 23 to 21.

Vansky Loses Mat Match

Angelo Martinelli spoiled Jack Vansky's mat ring hopes here last night at the Armory.

Vansky had hoped to upset the Italians' climb toward a shot at Johnny Demchuk's junior heavyweight title.

After taking the first fall in 14.29 with the leg lock followed by a body press, Martinelli came back to take the next two in 5.10 and 11.21.

He scored the first on a series of body blocks that had his opponent in a daze. The second fall saw Vansky kayoed with Martinelli using his head to do the trick.

In the semi-final bout, Oregon McDonald took two straight falls from Jim Bradley. The first came in 19:20 with the "Oregon woodchopper" hold and the second in 14:42 with a arm lock and body press.

Next week Promoter Earl Myers will bring the gals back to the local scene after an absence of 15 months.

June Byers of Huston, Texas, and Juanita Banks of California will tangle in a two out of three fall scrap with a one hour time limit.

MARTY SERVO has had the title of world welterweight champion taken away from him by the New York State Athletic commission for failure for the second time in five months to go through with a scheduled bout with Ray "Sugar" Robinson tonight in Yankee stadium. Al Weill, Servo's manager, who contends Servo could not meet Robinson because of injuries to Servo's nose, has also been suspended.

Playoffs Set For OS Loop

(By United Press)

Unless there is a major upset within the three days of play left in the Ohio State league, the loop's O'Shaughnessy playoffs will open next Tuesday night with fourth-place Newark at first-place Springfield and third-place Richmond at runner-up Zanesville.

This finish seemed almost a certainty after the leading Springfield Giants hung on to their 2½ game margin with an 11 to 6 victory over Middletown last night while Zanesville edged Marion 6 to 4.

Zanesville outfielder Maynard DeWitt, who Wednesday night stole his 108th base of the season and set a new record for organized ball, last night added thefts 109 and 110 to the string.

Richmond dropped 2½ games behind Zanesville as the Roses lost to Dayton, 6 to 4, and Newark was defeated at Lima by a 4 to 3 count.

BOUDREAU NAMED TOP ATHLETE

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Manager Lou Boudreau of the Cleveland Indians has been acclaimed by the local Junior Chamber of Commerce as "the outstanding Cleveland athlete of the year."

The organization will present the Tribe's shortstop with a gift on Boudreau Day in the stadium Sept. 15.

Whites Punch Over Two Touchdowns

Building Up of Plays, Demonstration of Each Players' Job Given Fans.

Nearly 2,500 Mansfield high football fans have put their stamp of approval on the 1946 edition of the Tyger grid club.

That many fans were on hand last night out at Stadium field where the Tyger club staged its annual football clinic.

Coach Paul Snyder sent his squad through a half-hour scrimmage session that gave a pretty good inkling of what is to be expected from the high-spirited squad during its 10-game sked.

This workout pitting the Whites (varsity first team) against the Reds (varsity second team) highlighted the clinic.

Herb Smith, president of the Tyger club, served as master of ceremonies for the night and did a great job of keeping the program moving smoothly.

Supt. W. L. Miller, Principal Glenn G. Rohleder and Harold W. Arlin, president of the board of education, were introduced to the fans and each spoke briefly.

President Smith also explained to the group the purpose of the Tyger club and outlined its program for the year.

Following the introduction of the Senior and Junior high coaches, each player on the Tyger varsity and sophomore squads were introduced.

A cut-down daily practice was offered the fans with the squads first going through their calisthenics with Assistant Coach Vern Hoffman barking the commands.

Then the squad split up and worked on the various fundamentals such as blocking, running, etc.

Demonstration of offensive plays on the part of each player was shown by the varsity squad.

During the 30-minute scrimmage the Whites rammed over two touchdowns in a manner that was pleasing to the coaching staff and the fans.

But there is still plenty of polishing up to do on the Tyger defense and the blocking has to be improved before the Tyger coaching staff can stop groaning.

"The scrimmage was satisfactory in most ways but we're going to have to work the team pretty hard the first part of next week," Snyder stated.

Marion Harding comes here Friday night to test the Tygers in the opener.

Coach Fred Staub's sophomores looked impressive in a short scrimmage against the varsity seconds and thirds. The first-year men tallied several times.

Feller's Slump Continues

Gives Up Eight Runs In Fourth Inning

By JOE REICHLER, AP Sports Writer.

Time is rapidly running out on Bobby Feller's hopes of setting a new major strikeout record as the Cleveland Indians' great pitcher wallows in the worst slump of his baseball career.

The speedy righthander, who was figured a good bet to become the first pitcher since Dizzy Dean of 12 years ago to notch 30 victories when he registered his 20th win last July 31, has hit an amazing decline since then, losing six of his next eight starts, including his last three

Feller's sudden reversal of form also has practically ruined his chance of overtaking Rube Waddell's 42-year-old listed record of 343 strikeouts

In his last eight starts, Feller has whiffed only 40 batters to increase his season's total to 293 He is expected to make five more starts which means he must average 10 strikeouts per game to equal Waddell's mark

Bullet Bob suffered his most humiliating defeat yesterday in Detroit at the hands of the Tigers who clubbed him for eight runs in the fourth inning, the most runs ever scored against Feller in one frame since he joined the majors in 1936 The previous high was five by the New York Yankees

In all Feller was tagged for nine runs and 11 hits in the three and one-third innings he worked with the Tigers beating him for the third straight time, 10-9. Fred Hutchinson hurled the shutout for the Tigers.

The heated National league pennant race continues unabated as the front-running St Louis Cardinals and runner-up Brooklyn Dodgers both won, the Cards shellacking the Chicago Cubs in a night game at St. Louis, 10-1, and the Brooks shading the Braves in Boston, 1-0 The Cards retained their two-game bulge over the Dodgers, with 22 games remaining on each team's schedule

Jim Bagby moved the Boston Red Sox to within four games of clinching the American league pennant, scattering nine hits to defeat the Senators 1-0 in Washington at night

The Yankees protected their two-game margin over the Tigers by defeating the Athletics in Philadelphia, 6-2.

After tying the score at 3-all with three runs in the bottom half of the stretch, the Chicago White Sox defeated the visiting St. Louis Browns 4-3 in 11 innings.

Jack Graham's second home run of the day, with two mates aboard in the ninth inning, gave the New York Giants a 6-5 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies at the Polo Grounds.

Held scoreless for eight innings, the Pittsburgh Pirates got to Johnny Vander Meer for three hits and two runs to defeat the Reds 2-1 in Cincinnati

Witte AA's Most Valuable

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Jerome (Jerry) Witte, Toledo's home-run hitting first baseman, today was named the American association's most valuable player for the 1946 campaign by the loop's baseball writing fraternity.

The nomination gave Witte, the league's leading home run hitter, a clean sweep of laurels for the season, for he was elected the "outstanding freshman" three weeks ago

Thirteen of 28 scribes voting for the most valuable player selected the 28-year-old Toledo first sacker Louisville's catcher-manager, Fred Walters, garnered eight ballots Shortstop Sebastian (Sibby) Sisti of Indianapolis was next with five but two of the scribes picked Johnny McCarthy of Minneapolis.

Witte, who set a record with three straight homers in the league's all-star game at Indianapolis in July, has banged out 43 homers in the regular season and also is far ahead of the field in the total bases hitting department with an aggregate of more than 340.

Playing his first year of baseball after a three-year hitch in the army, Witte is regarded as the best major league prospect in the loop and is headed for the St. Louis Browns, parent club of the Toledo Mudhens.

Indians Still In AA Fight

(By United Press)

An Indianapolis victory and a Louisville defeat cut the Kentucky nine's lead in the American Association to three and a half games today, with the Hoosiers still holding a slim chance for the league flag

Indianapolis edged out Columbus, 5 to 3, yesterday, as Louisville was swamped, 11 to 2, at Toledo A single triumph would cinch the pennant for the Colonels. The Milwaukee at Minneapolis game was called after six innings because of rain, with the Millers winning, 2 to 1 Rain also postponed the Kansas City-St Paul encounter

Earl Reid hurled Indianapolis to victory at Columbus, giving up nine hits and three runs

Louisville got 11 hits off Mudhen Pitcher Johnny Miller but managed only single tallies in the sixth and eighth frames. The Colonels used three burlers, Al Widmar being charged with the loss

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

A motorcycle cop stopped a car and pulled out his summons book. "I clocked you at forty-five, mister," he said.

The lady in the back seat cackled gleefully "Just you give him a ticket, officer. Serves him right. I've told him for years he's a reckless, inconsiderate, dangerous driver!"

"Your wife?" queried the cop, and when the driver nodded glumly, he snapped the summons book shut and added, "Drive on, brother."

They still are telling stories about One-Eyed Connolly, the greatest gate-crasher in history Chided for letting "One Eye" slip past him at a heavyweight championship bout, a ticket-taker explained mournfully, "That bird walked in backwards so smoothly that I thought he was coming out."

2—Card of Thanks

IN LOVING MEMORY of our son, brother and husband who lost his life one year ago today while working as a lineman for the O. P. S.

No one knows the silent heartache
Only those who lost can tell
Of the grief we bear in silence
For the one we loved so well.

Friends may think we have forgot you
When they see us smile,
Little do they know our sorrow
That is hid behind a smile.

Words can't tell how we miss you,
How we miss your smiling face;
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place.

Mrs. Angelene Majors,

IN MEMORY of our dear husband and father, Earnest Zartman, who died a year ago today.
Sad and sudden was the call

We did not know of the pain you felt,
or hear your final sigh
We only know you went away, without a last goow-bye.

STOCKS DROP AGAIN AFTER BRIEF RALLY

Customers Still Nervous Due to Sharp Relapse Tuesday, Declare Brokers.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Stocks, with scattered exceptions, resumed the retreat in today's market although the pace slowed.

An early attempt to extend Thursday's rally failed to attract adherents and the direction soon was downward.

Customers still were nervous over the recent sharpest relapse in 16 years, brokers said, and these continued to trim commitments. Another long weekend also was thought to have inspired some safety selling. The maritime strike tended to chill sentiment, it was added.

Among backsliders were Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, Dow Chemical, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Goodyear, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Public Service of N. J. Standard Oil (NJ), American Water Works, Chesapeake & Ohio.

KEEP HALF-DAY SCHEDULE AT GRADE SCHOOL

Mass Meeting Fails to Bring Solution to Problem at Western Building.

parents to do is to provide the proper atmosphere in which the child can do his work. We are not asking parents to be teachers.

"We're asking you to give this a trial," Miller added. "We'll do our best and we're asking you to do your best in this emergency."

Warning that "this is a mere ripple of what may happen," the superintendent gave no assurance that that half-day school would be temporary.

"The increase in enrollment is beginning to show itself this year. It will be seen again next year and for the next five years," he said.

Supt. Miller said that architects' plans for Western avenue school, Roseland and West Fifth schools are "well on their way" and that the school board "hopes to have specifications ready for Western avenue school addition within the next few weeks."

"If we can get contractors to make bids on the building, this may be cleared up by next year, but there's no assurance," Miller added.

"We knew last spring that unless there was a decrease in the Western Avenue school district, there would be an overflow of pupils in the building," the superintendent asserted. "But we had to wait until school opened to determine if we'd have too many pupils.

"The wisest plan then was to give pupils half-day sessions in the school district where they reside, with the teachers and pupils they've grown asccustomed to.

"This plan has worked, and it can work again," Miller continued. "If the first graders we're expecting to enter the system next year, are actually enrolled, we'll have another situation like this and there'll be no use holding a meeting about it."

"If I have 10 teachers out in the morning, I can't fill half of the vacancies," Supt Miller said. "When I go out into the market to hire teachers I can't hire them because I can't pay the price.

2 Schools Available.

"Obstacles will have to be overcome in transferring pupils to another school. Only schools which can take extra pupils now are Carpenter and Hedges," he added.

Alvin H. Fankhouser, only member of the board of education present at last night's meeting, said he could add nothing to what Supt. Miller said. Fankhauser is the father of a fifth grade boy at Western Avenue school.

Turned over to parents after Supt. Miller's talk, the session became a debate between parents who were willing to accept the emergency and those who maintained that "something could be done about it."

First speaker was a mother who commented:

"It's nobody's fault that we have a situation like this and I think it's a good idea to run half-day sessions. I'm sure that I can adjust my running around, both day and night, to help my son with his homework.

I'd much rather have him go half days and stay with his playmates and be close home than go across town for a whole day.

Blames Home.

"It's my personal opinion that the American home is slipping and that modern parents are shoving all educational responsibility of their children onto the teachers."

A burst of applause followed this mother's opinion.

Another mother brought along a grown girl who the mother contended, attended halfday sessions and got her lowest grades while so doing. This was picked up immediately by two other parents in the audience who had half-day sessions during the construction of Senior high school and who said they hadn't suffered a bit.

Another mother said. "The children would have had recess and study halls anyway at school. I can't see what the argument is, unless it's that the parents are afraid the children will be in the way."

Just before adjournment, one parent spoke up. "If there was no argument, why did we come here in the first place?"

Hours of school attendance under the half-day system are:

First shift, fifth and sixth grades, 8 a. m. to 11:45 a. m. Second shift, fifth and sixth grades, 12:15 p. m. to 3:50 p. m. Two teachers, Miller said, will alternate in teaching the two sessions. The new system will go into effect Monday.

Both services will be conducted by the Rev. Harlan J. Miller, pastor of the church.

Five sons: Jacob, and Edgar of Grove City, Pa.; Donald of Akron; William of Shelby, and David of Honolulu, and two daughters, Helen and Miriam of Akron, survive.

Unprecedented Talk Reveals U. S. Foreign Policy.

ally assigned" at Potsdam, Byrnes asserted, and "the protocol of the Potsdam conference makes clear the heads of government did not agree to support at the peace settlement the cession of any particular area."

Raps Allied Council.

In urging the early establishment of a central Germany government, Byrnes declared that the four-power Allied control council "so far as many vital questions are concerned, is neither governing Germany nor allowing Germany to govern herself."

"All that the Allied governments can and should do is to lay down the rules under which Germany can govern itself," he said. "The Allied occupation forces should be limited to the number sufficient to see that these rules are obeyed."

The secretary said the American government took the stand that "the German people throughout Germany, under proper safeguards, should now be given the primary responsibility for the running of their own affairs."

Byrnes emphasized that the United States would stand by her agreements to support Soviet claims to Koenigsberg in East Prussia and Polish requests for revision of her northern and western frontiers.

PILES ARE NEVER "MILD"

DANGER IN NEGLECT

No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" disorder.

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formations without tendency to heal themselves, instead, they are likely, if neglected, to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in the back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its run-down tired feeling, and general nervous irritability.

Removal of piles is the only permanent relief — written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, does not require the use of knife or drugs, and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties.

RECORD IS SET BY TWO CLASSES

1,509 Are Enrolled For Term in Shelby Public Schools.

SHELBY — Although two classes are setting record enrollments this fall for the Shelby public schools, the total registration has only increased six pupils over the 1945-46 school year, Supt. Byron H. Carmean revealed today.

Enrolled in the entire public school system this fall are 1,509 pupils as compared with 1,503 for last year.

At the high school there are 747 pupils and in the elementary schools 762 as compared with 763 in the grades last year and 740 in the high school.

The first grades at Central, Hayes and Grant schools total 163 pupils, setting a new record for the enrollment. The record-breaking freshman class totals 169 pupils. The increase in the freshman class was attributed by school officials to the large class of pupils entering the high school from St. Mary's parochial school.

In the grade schools, 561 pupils are enrolled at Central, 98 at Hayes and 121 at Grant.

Only 6 Workers Permanently Disabled in First 7 Months of This Year.

During the first seven months of this year only six of more than 15,000 Mansfield industrial employes suffered permanent disabilities as the result of industrial accidents, the Chamber of Commerce revealed today.

The 15,000 workers are employes of 162 Mansfield firms which are participants in the C. of C.'s annual industrial accident prevention campaign.

Through July of this year, no employe of the firms entered in the contest had died as the result of an industrial accident and only 28 had suffered broken bones, the C. of C. reports.

Ninety-one employes lost more than seven days work each as the result of accidents through July of this year while 114 others lost less than seven days work.

July was the "low" month of the year. The 162 contestant firms reported only 28 accidents during that month, the C. of C. said. Last low month was April with 33 accidents.

Since the first of the year the 15,000 participating employes have worked more than 14,000,000 man hours.

In announcing results of the accident prevention campaign to date, C. of C. officials also reported that the contest will be continued throughout the year.

Normally it would end next month but requests from industries to continue the contest on a year-round basis resulted in its continuation, officials said.

SORRY, NO NEW TIRES TODAY: Ruefully surveying the naked rim, Quinter Lyon (left), a former Ashlander living in Minot, N. D., listens to Lyle Walker tell him there are no new tires available. Walker, instead, replaced Lyon's blown-out tire with a factory re-cap. Lyon drove into the Firestone store at 16 South Mulberry street from Ashland, where he is visiting relatives.

Autoists Hunt Far and Wide For Tires for Their Cars

A year after the war's end, Mansfield autoists still find it virtually impossible to buy new tires.

"People pester us all the time," reported the attendant at one large station.

He's listened to scores of tales of woe from traveling salesmen who reported they had tried without success to find new tires in Canton, Wooster and Youngstown.

And more than one motorist has come to Mansfield still looking for tires after making inquiry at nearly every gasoline station at which he stopped in state after state and town after town.

One station attendant even confided the information that he had supplied traveling friends with money for purchase of tires any place they might find them; he couldn't even get new tires for his own automobile.

"We just don't get enough tires to meet our demand," say the attendants. "Even on an allotment basis we can't get what we need."

"Sometimes we get a batch of tires in a hurry," reported another attendant, "but just as often we have to wait for weeks before we get any."

Explanations for the shortage are numerous but figures of the Rubber Manufacturers' association give hope that rubber for rolling wheels soon may be more plentiful. The association forecasts a 1946 production of passenger car tires of 63,000,000, barring material shortage and labor difficulties. This is in contrast with a 1940 production of 50,965,000 tires, setting what the association terms a peacetime record for the industry.

He's listened to scores of tales of woe from traveling salesmen who reported they had tried without success to find new tires in Canton, Wooster and Youngstown.

And more than one motorist has come to Mansfield still looking for tires after making inquiry at nearly every gasoline station at which he stopped in state after state and town after town.

One station attendant even confided the information that he had supplied traveling friends with money for purchase of tires any place they might find them; he couldn't even get new tires for his own automobile.

"We just don't get enough tires to meet our demand," say the attendants. "Even on an allotment basis we can't get what we need."

"Sometimes we get a batch of tires in a hurry," reported another attendant, "but just as often we have to wait for weeks before we get any."

Explanations for the shortage are numerous but figures of the Rubber Manufacturers' association give hope that rubber for rolling wheels soon may be more plentiful. The association forecasts a 1946 production of passenger car tires of 63,000,000, barring material shortage and labor difficulties. This is in contrast with a 1940 production of 50,965,000 tires, setting what the association terms a peacetime record for the industry.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1946

How about sending Dale Carnegie to Paris to see if he can "make friends and influence people."

Fine time for Drew Pearson to be off on vacation—when so many things need settling—but fortunately Walter Lippman is back!

Individual incomes this year are expected to total 165 billion dollars—which averages somewhat less than $1,200 for each of an estimated 60 million workers . . . thus surely proving something or other.

About Our Overcrowded Schools

REGRETTABLE as it may be, there seems no escaping the admission that Mansfield is not keeping pace with the increasing needs of a steadily—and rapidly—growing population.

Matter of immediate concern is the public school situation, with the problem of shifting some grade school children from overcrowded buildings to others that are already at or above reasonable capacity and teaching facilities.

Unavoidable delays in carrying through the approved building enlargement and remodeling program is largely responsible for the present condition, although, even under the best of conditions, the school expansion program could not have been carried through by this time.

Another fact that must be faced is that Mansfield's salary scale for teachers is too low to be competitive with other comparable cities, which makes it impossible to secure and hold as many capable teachers as will be needed when more space is provided and enrollment grows.

These are things that should be given more serious thought than they are now being given by any other than school authorities—and thought should lead to action.

An Appreciation of John Graham

THE LESS that is said here about the prospective departure of John W. Graham and his family from Mansfield, the better John will be suited, for he is one of the sort who regards "the right of privacy" to extend particularly to newspaper men, especially as to the paper with which they are associated.

This is an occasion, however, which cannot be permitted to pass without an expression of appreciation by the entire News-Journal organization of the fine friendships that have grown through thirteen years of association with Mr Graham in the publication of this newspaper.

Sincerity of friendships was evidenced last night when employes in all departments of The News-Journal joined in a farewell party, the idea of which originated spontaneously in each of the departments as word went around that John was leaving. And, by the way, this is the first time in Mansfield newspaper history that departure of any associate was given such marked attention, accompanied by so many expressions of sincere regret.

Not only will those of The News-Journal organization feel the loss of Mr. Graham and his family, but the activities of both Mr. and Mrs. Graham in community affairs will be greatly missed, for Mr. Graham has always been keenly interested in everything that contributed to the betterment of Mansfield and all of its organizations, not alone those with which he has been identified and in which his qualities of leadership were recognized by advancement to positions of high responsibility.

Mrs. Graham, too, has been an active factor in community life, and her devotion to the duties of commissioner of the Mansfield Girl Scout Council has been an inspiration to other workers in that fine organization.

As in Mansfield, housing conditions in Morgantown, W. Va., are in the "no vacancy" category, so the family will remain here for the present—which will tend to lessen abruptness of the breakaway.

And there you have it—as briefly as it could be said—although it all simmers down to the simple statement: "We all like John and his family very much, and we are sorry to see them leave Mansfield."—G. J. K.

All Garbage Should Be Collected

ONE THING that city council should take into account, in connection with a suggested boost in charge for collecting garbage, is the likelihood that a higher charge would result in fewer voluntary users of the collection system and that the nuisance of disposing of garbage in others ways would continue.

In presenting the idea of meeting the cost of garbage collection out of city funds derived from taxation, Councilman Charles O. Anglin proposes following a course that has been satisfactorily adopted by a number of other cities, and which merits serious consideration here.

Announcement that several hundred users of the garbage collection service were to be cut off, because of non-payment of fees, points a weakness in the present system which should be corrected.

Removal of ashes is quite another matter, and if this can be continued on an individual charge basis—possibly per container—well and good, but garbage collection should be general throughout the city . . . because of the health and nuisance elements involved

Touring Through 'Peach Country'

IN THE peach country of northern Ohio, along Lake Erie and around Sandusky Bay, the first few days after the peaches are ripe take on many aspects of a festival.

Cars from the surrounding territory fill the roads and progress is leisurely. Every roadside stand is looked over, and some enthusiasts must travel all around the peninsula before they can be sure of selecting the finest offerings.

The ride home is taken slowly, and trundling past the well-kept orchards where many trees are heavy with the later peaches, the family sees the blue bay shining through the trees, ruffled with foamy whitecaps whipped up by a breeze that hints of fall.

An American scientist, back for observation in Russia, says there is less drinking at a Moscow banquet than is common in this country—thus refuting what seemed to be an admission of Russian superiority in the matter of excessive drinking.

The skeleton of a man who died 100,000 years ago has been found in a cave—probably while it was being cleared up for a tenant who could find no other place to live.

According to a biologist, bowlegs are an indication of courage—so that explains why they are occasionally seen in slacks.

J. Edgar Hoover Reveals How FBI Fought Espionage During the War

(Editor's Note—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, his column will be written by several distinguished guest columnists—today's by John Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.)

By JOHN EDGAR HOOVER

WASHINGTON—The great majority of the American public has considered the FBI as a purely domestic force, utilized to enforce federal criminal laws and to safeguard the internal security of the nation.

With the end of the war, it can now be stated that the FBI, under the direction of the president, was responsible during World War II for gathering intelligence and subversive information throughout the entire Western hemisphere and for coordinating efforts to combat sabotage and espionage in all the countries of the Caribbean, Central and South America. As a result of the cooperation between the FBI and local law enforcement agencies in these countries, no foreign-inspired sabotage occurred and enemy espionage efforts were completely curbed throughout all the Americas.

HOOVER

The Germans were amply supplied with funds for their work These were received in part from the sale of Rueckwander marks in the Americas. During the war FBI agents located a secret cache of Nazi funds in the German embassy in Washington. This fund totaled more than $3,000,000 Most of it was earmarked for use in espionage activities.

Early Nazi penetration in the western half of the globe took on a deadly significance with each incoming report. German troops in Dakar awaited orders to launch an attack on Brazil with direct attacks on American defenses in the Caribbean. German and Jap airplanes were expected to launch an all-out smash attack on the Panama Canal.

How Nazis Plotted.

The German diplomatic staff figured in plots designed to promote revolutions in several South American countries. German propagandists worked overtime to drive a wedge between the haters of Nazism and Fascism in the Americas.

One propaganda campaign line charged that Italian submarines were sinking Brazilian ships while Brazilian troops were fighting with the Allies in Italy. The old theme of "Yankee Imperialism" in South America was ground out by the Nazi propaganda machine with little success.

Stemming the tide of Nazi penetration in the Western Hemisphere was no less important than halting Hitler's armies in Europe. The task was accomplished not only in the United States but the confidential records of the FBI contain thrilling exploits that bear tribute to the splendid work of South American law enforcement officers working side by side with FBI agents throughout the southern continent.

For example, when espionage rings were uncovered by the FBI in Brazil and Chile, local authorities moved with a dispatch rivaling the alien round-ups in the United States following the Pearl Harbor disaster.

From July 1, 1940, through June 30, 1946, 879 espionage agents were identified in South America, together with 281 propaganda agents, 30 sabotage agents, and 222 smugglers of strategic war materials. A total of 15,047 alien enemies in South America were moved from strategic areas, interned or expelled, while an additional 16,000 potentially dangerous enemy aliens were arrested in the United States and territorial possessions.

"Micro-Dot" Ring.

The biggest and most baffling espionage case handled by the FBI during the war centered in one of our neighboring countries. This ring introduced the "Micro-dot" as a means of communication to the Western Hemisphere.

The Germans succeeded in photographing a typed page of spy reports and reducing it to film no larger than a pencil point. The film was embedded in a comma or period on an envelope addressed to Germany. FBI technicians discovered this method of communication very early in the war and caught hundreds of micro-dot messages.

If the contents of one was innocuous it was permitted to go on to Germany; if not, it was condemned. Conveniently, the spies numbered each message so that we were able to keep them in sequence. This particular ring has now been broken up. Only recently a large number of members were deported to Germany.

As a matter of strategy many spy rings were permitted to operate under surveillance which often presented baffling problems. In one instance a resourceful FBI agent secured a soft-drink peddler's wagon and sold drinks in the street, meanwhile keeping an observant eye on the meeting place of the espionage agents.

Good Neighbors.

German spies operating in South American countries were often linked with espionage cases in the United States. By exchanging information developed in this country with police agencies of our southern neighbors, German spy successes were stymied.

During the war FBI intelligence agents were stationed in all South American countries. In addition to exchanging information they served as police instructors for the South American law enforcement agencies.

In innumerable cases FBI agents furnished information to South American police which resulted in prompt raids on Nazi spy hideouts.

One agent wormed his way into the confidence of a group of subversives to such an extent that on the death of one of the leaders of the group which was endeavoring to foment a revolution, he was assigned as a member of the guard of honor. Before a photographer was permitted to take pictures of the funeral bier surrounded by the guard of honor, our agent was removed with the admonition that he was too valuable to the group to be "spotted" should the picture fall into the hands of the FBI.

A local official in one country frequently boasted of his knowledge of world-wide police work. He claimed that he had studied Scotland Yard, the French surete, the FBI and the world's other leading investigative agencies. He frequently ridiculed the FBI and other American institutions and boasted that he could "spot any FBI undercover agent on sight."

The man he was intimately friendly with for four months was an FBI agent posing as a visitor. The braggart imparted considerable confidential information to the "visitor."

Caught Spies.

For months the FBI operated a secret radio station for the German network of spies in the United States. The funds for building it were supplied by the German government.

FBI agents manned it completely and through it established contact with other clandestine radio stations operated by the Germans in South America.

Eventually, the trap was sprung and all members of the Nazi group were apprehended.

An example of our good-neighbor policy in effective intelligence work is the case of August Lunning, who was endeavoring to furnish data to Germany by short-wave radio from Cuba. He kept a singing canary to conceal the sound of the radio key in his room. Highly trained and clever, Lunning's career was, nevertheless, short. Detected by the FBI and arrested by the Cuban national police, he was tried, found guilty and sentenced to face a firing squad.

The execution of the six saboteurs who landed on the Eastern coast of the United States brought the total executions of enemy agents in the Western Hemisphere to seven.

Blocked Espionage.

We were reasonably sure from the very outbreak of war that espionage was under control not only within the United States but in the entire Western Hemisphere as well. Partial proof lay in the fact that during the war no single enemy-directed act of sabotage occurred. Complete confirmation came when the war was over and we had an opportunity to inspect German espionage records and interview their leaders.

Hermann Goering paid us our highest compliment when he said that German intelligence in the Americas had been poor as the "American FBI had been too observant in uncovering efforts at espionage so that a spy network could not be developed."

I cannot praise too vigorously the loyal, conscientious officials in the Western Hemisphere who cooperated with the FBI to make the Americas secure from enemy sabotage and espionage. The results obtained bring definite proof of what can be accomplished when a united front is presented against a common enemy.

Erie passenger train hit automobile near reformatory, killing Mr. and Mrs. David W. Brown and their 8-year-old son, Ellsworth.

Contract was awarded for construction of new St. Peter's parochial school, corner South Mulberry and West First streets.

Daughter was born to Mr and Mrs. Melvin Freese, 33 Woodland avenue; daughter to Mr and Mrs Glen Mowry, Hickory Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Oberlin and daughter left for new home in Harrisburg, Pa.

Family reunion was held at home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Frye, Marion avenue.

Carl Lentz orchestra of Norwalk played at Labor day dinner-dance at Westbrook Country club.

Airport Financing Presents Problems.

DETROIT, Mich.—Having any airport trouble these days? Does your hangar hurt from lack of help, and do you lack help because you can't afford to pay for it? Are your landing strips in a rundown condition? Does your ramp feel empty most of the time?

Do you suffer from a constant feeling of isolation and insolvency?

Ahhhh, yes. Uh-huh. Just as I thought.

What you need—regardless of whether your airport is city, state or privately owned—is to call in an airport analyst and consultant.

In case you didn't know there were such experts in the field of aviation today, you just haven't kept in touch with what's happening to a lot of the ex-air corps Joes who've swapped their 50-mission-crush bonnets for neat snap-brim felts.

One such is tall, black-haired, broad-shouldered Leigh Fisher who decided, some time after leaving Uncle Sugar's employ, that there were a lot of airports lying around the country which could fast develop into white elephants unless something were done about them.

Moreover, he found that many communities which were first inclined to be delighted at the prospect of having huge government-built airports at their disposal suddenly weren't so sure they didn't have hold of the trunk of just such a white elephant.

"As things now stand," asserts 26-year-old Leigh, "there just isn't enough private flying yet to support the average air terminal, if it attempts to exist on air commerce alone. Airports have to quit being isolated in an area and have to start blending their business into that of the community. That's the first and basic step everywhere."

Since Leigh and his associates are not airport engineers, financiers, lawyers or the like, they do not compete with any old-line endeavors of the aviation industry. Even so, they have a finger in all those pies from a consulting point of view.

Actually, they are willing to tackle any advisory phase of the job necessary to build, remodel, rearrange or streamline any airport until it becomes a paying proposition. They may involve problems of management, operations, financing, field development, public relations, merchandising, service or design.

For example, most small airports today have little facilities for feeding the chance hungry traveler. In fact, the current gag is that an aerial wanderer is more likely to "die of starvation than anything else."

"The reason is obvious," young Fisher says. "Most such airports have discovered they can't support a restaurant on air traffic business alone. The answer is simple. They have to set up a restaurant which will attract local, community and passer-by trade. With a little advertising and a good restaurant manager—plus the natural attraction of any airport's atmosphere—they soon can have restaurants doing a thriving business, of which the air travel trade will be only a part."

Leigh isn't just talking through his hat. He's proved that point.

He's proved others, too. For instance, many ports now are using countless small T-hangars, rather than fewer large ones. If the airport is located along a main highway, Leigh shows them how to double in brass with their T-hangar business.

To avoid wasting space, he has them build small cottages in that extra area between the T-bars. Pilots, private and commercial, thus can spend the night without ever leaving the field if they so choose—a not inconsiderable factor in an airport's favor during this unhappy housing period!

If, however, sundown comes and the cottages and T-hangars are not full, one end of them opens wide to make an auto garage, the "tourist cabins" light flashes on out along the highway and the airport starts drawing its business from the motorists.

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

THE stock market is so jumpy these days that the ticker tape is coming out curled.

Everything is "sell . . . sell . . . sell!" One member rushed out on the floor shouting "I'll buy a thousand!" Other members asked "A thousand what?" He said "Aspirin . . what else is good?"

Food Plays Part In World Politics.

THE RESOLUTION of the Veterans of Foreign Wars against shipment of American food to former enemies serves to remind that, with the demise of UNRRA, the United States faces development of a new policy regarding relief for other countries.

UNRRA has operated very largely on the basis of need, and has even been attacked for the blindness of the justice under which it may have bolstered interests which were alien to the policies of the largest contributors.

Recent public flareups over continued shipments to Yugoslavia, and the attention paid by the U. S. government to the protests, make it pretty obvious that the new policy will take into consideration the premise of some that help should be continued only to our friends, and perhaps be denied even to some of them if it would also benefit those with whom we are at odds.

The United States traditionally has acted as good Samaritan.

Best indications are that the new policy will be more what some would term realistic and, perhaps, what some will term selfish.

At least it appears that roles of relief food and foreign policy will be more closely integrated than heretofore.

This probably means that countries like Austria, Greece and India will receive major attention, with our attitude toward the former enemy countries and the Russian sphere considerably influenced by the benefits we will receive in return.

One perplexing angle is the possibility that this could involve turning down such countries as Finland, which still stands well in the American public mind, and Czechoslovakia, whose flag first flew on Massachusetts avenue in our own Washington.

Another serious problem is where the money is coming from to do anything for anybody.

The recent loan to Britain was made in an atmosphere that practically promised there would be few if any other direct treasury loans, and the Export-Import bank does not have the money to finance foreign relief.

It has declined to guarantee a $25,000,000 loan which a New York concern was prepared to grant to Austria. Now the Austrians, who have been very little helped by UNRRA (26,500 tons of supplies up until March this year) but who have depended heavily on aid from our military forces, are expected to appeal directly to the treasury.

Yugoslavia has done much to send herself to the bottom of our allotment list, even if she could pay, which she cannot. Yet she received 1,554,970 tons up until last March, and is expected to be in dire straits without outside aid.

Then there is Greece, which received 2,457,083 tons (70 per cent American, as are all UNRRA allotments) and is unable to pay except through loans.

Politics will not be particularly well served by throwing this burden over to the British, who would be bound to take it up to preserve their own position, yet would thereby diminish the mutual benefits of our loan to them.

These are just some of the problems involved. China represents one in herself. The politics involved this time is not so simple as that in American cities where food baskets during the year are translated almost automatically into votes on election day.

Farmer's Diary: "Growing In Scope."

I KNOW of no other field of action that is more vital and full of immediate interest than LAND USE. Wise use of the land means more than mere good farming . . . it is tied in with the educational and spiritual future of our world! I am amazed at the breadth of the field of thought it opens to even the casual student, and more and more I am of the opinion that a basic knowledge of farming should be a required part of every American voter's education. Listen to a few excerpts from The Land,—national quarterly magazine of conservation edited by Russell Lord.

"Could it not be successfully argued that a public investment of money, education and administrative energy in the rationalization of our food economy and culture, all the way from the farm to the dinner table, to the measures of a biological accountancy, would net greater gains in health than an equal investment in medical therapy?"—James Rorty and N. Parents to Blame.

An 8-year-old girl, walking on a New York city street one day last week, was killed when a rifle bullet pierced her neck.

Investigation developed that a 13-year-old boy had fired the shot. He was playing with his older brother's gun in their home. He inserted a clip of cartridges to make the game more real and took aim out the window at the little girl. Of course, he didn't intend to shoot her. He was just "making believe," but somehow the trigger got pulled.

Magistrate Joseph A. Levine, before whom the boy was arraigned on a charge of homicide, put the blame where it properly belongs.

"I only wish I could indict the parents of this boy," he said.

The written law makes that impossible. But the full responsibility for the death of the little girl rests on the parents who did not take precautions (1) to teach their child not to point ANY gun, even a toy, at a human being, and (2) to keep a deadly weapon out of reach of the boy. — Akron Beacon Journal.

Editor News-Journal:

Is the proposed tuberculosis sanatorium becoming a political football? I've read and heard this subject discussed pro and con, and 1947 has been suggested as the ideal year to build. I'd like to know who foresees 1947 as a better building year. Those in the say are only speculating — guessing what "tomorrow" might bring. Why not stop the bickering and get a little action?

Richland countians realized their dire need of a completely equipped, fully staffed tuberculosis sanatorium by enthusiastically voting the funds a year ago, and they elected commissioners to spend their money wisely, yet we hear the phrase, "Wait till later." Why wait?

If they insist on waiting until an uncertain 1947, why not use the ensuing delay to invite our neighbors, Ashland and Crawford counties, to provide for their tuberculars in our building program? The fundamental cost of one large sanatorium will bring an even greater return for the taxpayer dollar, and isn't this exactly what the commissioners are looking for?

Where there is tuberculosis there is no room for politics.

(Dorothy Kilgallen is on vacation. Her guest columnist today is famed coloratura soprano Lily Pons of the Metropolitan Opera.)

REVERIE IN MEXICO: I've been back and forth to Europe twice since April—and both were trips crammed with activity; musical, social and filial. It's only now, as I sit relaxed in the Villa at Cuernavaca, that all the various impressions take on some coherent form.

To begin at the beginning, or England.—

Complete exasperation and exhaustion are written into the faces as well as the clothing of John Bull's citizens. Patched trousers—the usual thing. Stockings, when and if they can be had, are BOTTLED by the women to prevent their deteriorating. Food and clothing are still rationed. Whiskey costs $18 a quart, soap can't be had for love or money, windows are covered with wax paper and bars.

So it goes, one annoyance after another. Yet, in a way, and difficult as the situation obviously is, there is an air of positivism in England today. If the country suffers, every single man suffers alike; there is no such thing, as in France, of a black market. To cite only one instance: I was out to dinner with the president of a large steel corporation who lifted his cocktail glass, unconsciously exhibiting an obvious mending job on the elbow sleeve of his jacket.

Particularly is this healthy vitality evident in the realm of art. Despite the hardships of the country at large, England has taken first place in the most sumptuous artistic profession in existence—theater, The top revue is "Sweetest and Lowest"—the third of a series—full of smart if risque jokes and Hermione Gingold's wonderful monologue "Mothah Indiah." Also witness the American-viewed pictures, "Henry V," "Ceasar and Cleopatra" and the Old Vic company recently in New York. Approximately twice as many theaters are functioning in London as on Broadway, and they're always jam-packed.

Compared with England, France—superficially—is living in the lap of luxury. The average tourist who remains two or three weeks, or even several months, sees only the plush, fashionable surface. Women, those the tourist sees, are exquisitely dressed; the de luxe restaurants serve only the very best in food. But, as I said before, all this is superficial.

The life-blood of the country, its entire, economic basis rests upon the "fashionable trade." Luxury is its mainstay—perfumes, hats, women's clothing, fine wines, exotic foods.

* * *

Summing up, England and France seem to me to present opposite sides of the same picture. England has little to say about her distress but, as usual, "makes the best of it." While France, the eternal coquette, puts on perfume and her best dress for the visitor though she simmers and fumes and works beneath the facade.

Winchell — On Broadway

THE STATE DEP'T probably won't confirm, but the atomic case of Canada is political dynamite for the GOP. When the inside story finally is detonated it may change the result of the Fall elections . . . H. Ford, II, is planning a speech for a soon-due broadcast that will rock industrial circles. He will debunk "guaranteed wages" among other labor matters . . . The present bold front of Mr. Byrnes in Paris was forced upon him by public opinion and the U. S. press. Mr. Byrnes, Mr. Acheson and some others in the SD were—and are—for Russian appeasement . . . Check this: The convalescing Howard Hughes just got an option for control of Northwest Airlines. If true (plus his ownership of TWA), that would give Hughes the first airline around the globe . . . For the fiscal year ending Aug. 31 Schenley's did a 700 million dollar biz. The firm expects to do a Billion in '47 . . . The excitement during the Summer (based on a rumor) that Franco would abdicate merely means that some Spanish generals collected some more gold and then welched.

The behind-the-scenes reason for the Musicians' Union squabble with the hotel and night spot owners is this: The Union wants more coin for the tooters because too many hotel and night clubmen (via printed reports) were dropping heavy money at cards and horses. Plus the "reports" that in recent seasons they were cleaning up fortunes at their places. These columnar and other "items" were planted by their own press agents for free ads!

Three Sundays ago in Rome an American attending early Mass at the Church of Jesus went over to the church warden and said: "One of your altar boys bears a striking resemblance to an American Supreme Court Justice, Mr. Frank Murphy" . . . Replied the churchman: "That man serving as altar boy IS Mr. Justice Murphy!" And it was . . . The rejected Donovan and LaGuardia may be urged to form a vets Bull Moose ticket. That would split N. Y. wide open . . . Russia ultimately plans to offer Germany full independence and alliance. In short, Stalin intends to reinstate his deal with Hitler . . . The State Dep't was disposed to close the case against Tito before the U. S. army had time to close the coffins of our dead . . . Waldo Ruess, the U. S. attache who was held by the Soviets for kissing a Moscow gal in a hack, is romancing Bibi Osterwald of the Bolger hit.

The British Foreign Office has a long range policy of extracting the highest possible price, in peace, for British assistance in war. In short, and as usual, Britain is our lasting friend—for a high fee. For all practical purposes, murderous Franco may be regarded as under the personal protection of the BFO . . . American business men are avoiding trips into Italy. Returnees say conditions too hazardous . . . The war of nerves in Europe will be followed by a deeper war of nerves in the Far East. The latter is due (this Winter) for its greatest crisis since 1931 . . . When Repubs finish investigating this one it will stifle noses. Directors on the world's largest bank in history—are actually part-time jobs! That shows how disorganized Washington has become Are people weary of war talk? The Eisenhower War Diary, I hear, isn't selling the way the publishers anticipated.

During the recent vacation Hollywood confirmed a tip that ran here six months ago. The blast that the Internal Revenuers would outlaw the collapsible movie corporations, who organize a corporation to make a film and then dissolve the corp to cash in the capital gains. Keeping 75 per cent of the loot and giving Uncle Sam 25 . . . It ran here December 10, 1945, this way: "The capital gains gag is being worked to death. The view of the income tax collector is that too many big shots are trying to convince the Treasury Department that a fixed horse is a gamble."

Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK—I am confident, I hope, that the operators of our hotels, not only in New York but elsewhere, will appreciate a few constructive remarks from a guest apropos the strike of Jimmy Petrillo's musicians here and the extension of that strike to taverns in other cities which are owned by the big chain. We who rent the rooms and are the backbone or perhaps, by now, only the backlog of the hotel industry have been imposed upon grievously.

I hope the hotels and the Musicians' Union never come permanently to terms and that my inn will become again a home away from home and cease to be a combination dance-hall, vaudeville house, night-club and ratrace for disorderly elements.

Throughout the war and for some time before, mine hosts deprived me of my own mean portions of butter, bacon, sugar and scraggly meat to sell it to casuals off the streets who came to dance, drink and marvel in alcoholic stupor at the dexterity of the magician in the honeymoon room or the lunar grotto as he made the ten of hearts hop out of a goblet, to mess up food with their ashes and butts while they sat enchanted by the tough blonde griping hoarsely into a tin can mounted on a pipe and to get babbling drunk.

Mine hosts never reduced the prices of their food but, on the contrary, raised them either subtly by charging outrageously for ersatz and garbage or, frankly, by revising upward the figures in the right hand column, or both.

The house-guest, putting up for a place in which to sleep and have his meals, finds the management preoccupied with amusement business, casual saloon trade, the so-called cocktail traffic for which he provides a gloomy tomb called the "lounge" adorned by stained and peeling old drolleries from the brush of a sign-painter, and an obsession for garish publicity.

Again, the house-guest, dining belatedly after a day's work, finds that the business men's grill and the coffee shop, awful as they are, have been closed since seven o'clock and so, if he takes a chance on the pink elephant room, he finds that he is not a guest but a disciplined inmate, paying extra for certain restraints and responsibilities. He may not receive service, even so much as the salt, while Ollie Twitch and his reefer boys are tearing the atmosphere to bleeding tatters from the platform and some agile mugger with greased hair is twining a boneless female around his neck and exhibiting an impersonal patch of leg meat, hers.

At any rate, he must sit through such violations of the peace and the dignified repose that the tavern normally owes him or go out foraging on the town, wait an hour for room service to bring him cold left-overs in his sleep-room, or go to bed hungry.

The last is the best way. But even then he will turn on the dim little bed-light with the cockeyed shade that clouds even that little light—the war, you know—and read the papers and smoke cigarettes until the degenerate howls of the hot jive from the reefer boys and the braying of the baritone finally die away amid the lunatic prattle of the convention trade, at two in the morning.

There was a time, not long ago, when the American hotel was the proud abode of courtesy, comfort and quiet for the weary wayfarer. By delicate hints I have tried to intimate that what was ain't.

Hal Boyle — Globe-Jotting

By JAMES DEVLIN
(For Hal Boyle)

BAD OEYNHAUSEN, Germany —(AP)—A sign beside the road leading into this British army headquarters town says quite simply:

"Bad Bends
"Bad Surface
"Bad Oeynhausen."

This joshing welcome to a rather cheering little town is only one of the many eye-compelling signs encountered in postwar Germany.

A huge black and white notice outside military government headquarters in Hamburg, intended to reduce noise to a minimum, declares:

"No unnecessary tooting."

The conscientious driver, seeing a pedestrian ahead should finger the horn tentatively and ask himself: "Is this toot necessary?"

In the British officers' club at Bielefeld a sign near the checkroom tells visitors:

"Please unload your revolver before handing it in. Our cloakroom attendants are not expendable."

Apparently it is an old sign, because few officers carry revolvers now unless they are on police missions.

Bridges are among the chief inspirations for sign literature.

On the Berlin-Cologne autobahn, six bridges over deep gorges were blown out in a stretch of a few miles between Bad Oeynhausen and Hannover. Names of the Bailey bridges now replacing them practically tell a history of the war.

There is the "Benghazi bridge" built by the 295th Field company, Royal engineers, "who fought there 2 April 1941." The "Tobruk" and "El Alamein" bridges were built by the same company which fought at each of those famed battlegrounds.

"Marzamemi" bridge also was built by the 295th which "landed there on D-Day Sicily." So was "Pizzo" bridge in remembrance of the company's landing on D-Day in Italy.

"Le Hamel" bridge commemorates the old 295th's landing on D-Day in Normandy.

There are no trees near the "Three Trees" bridge outside Hamburg, nor can any white horses be seen near "White Horse" bridge.

"Journey's End" bridge would be no place to end a trip, for it is in an isolated area with no food or shelter for miles around.

One bridge clearly raised hog with an English weekend for the builders took pains to note on the sign that it was "built on Sunday." A bridge outside Nienburg duly records the statistics that it is "608 feet long."

Signs in the American zone constantly remind drivers that "death is so permanent. Please drive carefully." The British counterpart is an ominous "you have been warned." These are serious signs, because traffic accidents have been one of the chief causes of death in the zones since the end of the war.

Still, it is with mixed feelings that a driver, lucky to make five miles an hour along a torn-up stretch of road near Minden, reads a sign which says:

"Hold your speed to 30 miles an hour."

Eleven more Mansfielders and one Shelby man have been sworn into the navy's V-6 inactive reserve program through the Mansfield recruiting station, Recruiter John T. Daley announced today.

One hundred and 63 more pupils registered in the city's schools today, hiking the enrollment to 6,366 for the third day of the new school year.

With the exception of Carpenter and Woodland elementary schools, all schools had more pupils today. Already overcrowded Western avenue school registered six more, bringing total enrollment there to 365, 15 more pupils than last year.

Striking Teachers, Board Will Confer

PORTSMOUTH—(INS)—Striking teachers in three Portsmouth area schools will meet tonight with the Bloom township education board to consider possible solution to the teachers' demand for a 25 per cent pay increase.

A board spokesman said the officials were willing to pay the increase if additional revenue to finance it could be raised.

SOIL PRACTICES BEST IN COUNTY

Geologist Speaks to Kiwanis; Bromfield Guest.

"Soil conservation practices can be seen at their best in Richland county," Prof. Paul R. Shaffer, head of the geology department of Ohio Wesleyan university, said yesterday.

Speaking before Kiwanis club members and their guests, among whom was Louis Bromfield, noted Mansfield author, at the club's noon luncheon in the Mansfield-Leland hotel, Shaffer praised the Muskingum Watershed conservancy district project as "one of the most noble experiments ever done in the history of man."

Colored slides illustrated the lecture in which Shaffer pointed out that Richland county is on a divide which allows rainfall to flow both to the Mississippi river and to the Great Lakes. The wearing away of Ohio's lakefront as well as the progressive results that have been achieved as a result of the Muskingum project were discussed and illustrated by Dr. Shaffer.

William S. Ross introduced the speaker.

MEET TONIGHT ON INSURANCE

Farmers to Hear Discussion of Protective Plan.

Richland county Triple-A committeemen will meet at 8 p. m. today in the common pleas court room at the courthouse for a discussion of the 1947 wheat crop insurance plan, Guy L. Taylor, committee chairman, said.

The meeting will be in charge of Joseph Wilbert, of Vickery, Sandusky county, crop insurance salesman.

With the Sept. 14 deadline for purchase of wheat crop insurance a week away, only a small number of farmers have made applications at the Triple-A office, Taylor said.

"We felt that many of the farmers have been busy and have neglected or forgotten that the deadline is approaching, so the discussion meeting has been called with the hope of working out a plan to get in as many applications as possible before the deadline," Taylor said.

Wheat crop insurance covers any loss to the crop, except that caused by the growers negligence. The plan is the same as last year with 75 per cent insurance payable in cash at the equivalent premium rate of 1.1 bushel per acre and 50 per cent coverage at .3 bushel per acre.

Called Out Five Times

A flash fire in a tire machine at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company plant, three grass fires and a truck that set off an alarm when it was backed against a box accounted for yesterday's activities of the fire department.

The flash fire, caused by static in the tire machine, sent trucks from stations 1, 2, and 4, to the Mansfield Tire at 4:57 p. m.

One grass fire occurred on Dickson Parkway and the other two in Lincoln Heights. Cause of two of the fires is unknown, while burning rubbish kindled the other, firemen said.

The false alarm was turned in when a truck backed against a box at the Westinghouse plant.

Surviving are the parents; the paternal grandmother, Mrs. Barbara Gross Bricker of Mansfield; the maternal grandfather, George Miller of Pittsburgh, and a great grandmother, Mrs Eva Gross, Mansfield.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services were to be held this afternoon in charge of the Apostolic Christian church. Burial was to be in Mansfield cemetery.

CAMERAMAN'S BACK—

It used to be a common sight around the city to see a tiny pony led by a man with a camera who took the children's pictures. During the war years, however, the man with the camera supposedly melted into the assembly lines and the pony was put out on pasture. The pre-war scene was revived yesterday on Newman street, much to the concern of parents and children alike. Leading a tiny, brown and white pony, the man with the camera was back, receiving the same squeals of delight from the children.

PLAY GOOD NEIGHBOR—

In addition to all of their other duties, Mansfield's finest today were pursuing a task given them by the mayor which had all of the earmarks of a good neighbor gesture. The assignment was the result of a letter from a Portsmouth, England, girl asking the mayor to send her the present address of a Mansfield veteran with whom she became acquainted while he was serving in the Army in England. The letter had none of "girl who was left behind" feeling. It stated only that the girl wished to continue her friendship with the ex-GI who hadn't written her since his return. Police Chief Meade K. Bates said he hadn't contacted the youth yet, but would do so. Meanwhile, he and the mayor withheld the ex-GI's name.

COMPENSATION COSTS EXCEED BILLION MARK

Number Near Peak With Little Indication of Drop in Near Future.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — One veteran out of every eight today receives the $20-a-week-for-52-weeks GI jobless pay.

The Retraining and Reemployment Administration, whose task it is to coordinate efforts to refit and reinstate discharged service men in civilian life, blames that relatively high ratio on (1) the inability of veterans to find suitable jobs and (2) their unwillingness to look for work at this time.

This month marks the second anniversary of the 52-20 program and the number of veterans receiving the unemployment payments — approximately 1,800,000—is pretty close to a peak.

What is worrying Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine, a soft-spoken, combat-toughened veteran marine commander, is that the figure has remained pretty steadily at that level since last March.

Approximately 4,900,000 veterans have received one or more GI unemployment payments since the program was initiated in Sept. 1944. This, it was estimated, is approximately 40 per cent of all the veterans discharged to date. The unemployment compensation program alone, one of many providing benefits for former servicemen, cost $1,060,557,036 up to Aug. 1.

More than 43,000 veterans have already exhausted their full 52 weeks of benefit payments. This figure appears relatively small when compared with the total number that has been on the rolls since the compensation program started. But, Gen. Erskine is worried that this figure will rise sharply during the coming months. It's not that he feels veterans are not entitled to the full benefits, but he fears the consequences of prolonged layoffs to men who could get jobs but won't.

He believes veterans should consider the weekly allowances as a form of insurance—something to tide them over until they can get jobs.

Men who prefer to remain on the compensation rolls, he says, are losing seniority and valuable job experience. They're losing the opportunity to build up social security credits. And Gen. Erskine fears that they may become a group of "dissatisfied, disillusioned 'floaters' and 'loafers.'"

The returns for July are only now being studied, but an analysis showed that 38.4 per cent of all new claims for compensation filed in June were from veterans who had been on the rolls, then left to take employment and returned. Indications are, RRA officials said, that this trend is steadily increasing.

KILLED IN WEST COAST ACCIDENT

Son-in-Law of Mansfielders Dies in Auto Crash.

Dr. Robert H. Onstott, 40, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. James, 560 West Fourth street, was killed Wednesday and Mrs. Onstott and their eight-year-old daughter were seriously injured in a traffic accident near Auburn, Calif., it was learned here today.

The accident occurred when the car driven by Dr. Onstott crashed into a road grader which was reported to have turned across the highway in front of the car.

Mrs. Onstott, the former Wilma James of Mansfield, and the Onstott's daughter are in Marine hospital, San Francisco. Mrs. Onstott is reported to have suffered back injuries and severe cuts on her face and shoulders.

Dr. Onstott's body was taken to Denver Colo., his former home, where the body will be placed in a mausoleum.

Dr. and Mrs. Onstott were returning from the Hawaiian Islands where Dr. Onstott had been federal health commissioner for three years. He was to have taken a position as chief of the Bureau of Commissioned Officers in the health service in Washington. They were en route to Mansfield to spend a few days before going on to Washington.

Edwin James, a brother of Mrs. Onstott, left by plane last night to be with his sister.

Only 41 of 673 Pre-School Children In Perfect Health

Of 673 children enrolled for pre-school health clinics last spring and summer, Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, reported today, health authorities found only 38 in the city and three in the rural areas without defects.

Of the 566 pre-school children enrolled in Mansfield, 414 showed up for examination. From the rural areas, only 259 attended out of 418 enrolled.

Corrections were made on 245 of those examined in the city and on 105 in the county.

Most prevalent defect was failure to have been vaccinated for smallpox. This accounted for 263 in the city and 212 in the county. Lack of diphtheria immunization was reported for 194 children in the city and 176 in the county. Examiners found 194 with defective teeth in Mansfield and 108 in the county.

Other defects in Mansfield were: nutritional, 36; vision, 35; ears, 43; tonsils, 49, and posture, 37. In the county: nutritional, 31; hearing, 15; vision, 26; ears, 40; tonsils, 33; gland defects, 13, and poisture defects, 21.

THE STATE DEP'T probably won't confirm, but the atomic case of Canada is political dynamite for the GOP. When the inside story finally is detonated it may change the result of the Fall elections . . . H. Ford, II, is planning a speech for a soon-due broadcast that will rock industrial circles. He will debunk "guaranteed wages" among other labor matters . . . The present bold front of Mr. Byrnes in Paris was forced upon him by public opinion and the U. S. press. Mr. Byrnes, Mr. Acheson and some others in the SD were—and are—for Russian appeasement . . . Check this: The convalescing Howard Hughes just got an option for control of Northwest Airlines. If true (plus his ownership of TWA), that would give Hughes the first airline around the globe . . . For the fiscal year ending Aug. 31 Schenley's did a 700 million dollar biz. The firm expects to do a Billion in '47 . . . The excitement during the Summer (based on a rumor) that Franco would abdicate merely means that some Spanish generals collected some more gold and then welched.

The behind-the-scenes reason for the Musicians' Union squabble with the hotel and night spot owners is this: The Union wants more coin for the tooters because too many hotel and night clubmen (via printed reports) were dropping heavy money at cards and horses. Plus the "reports" that in recent seasons they were cleaning up fortunes at their places. These columnar and other "items" were planted by their own press agents for free ads!

Three Sundays ago in Rome an American attending early Mass at the Church of Jesus went over to the church warden and said: "One of your altar boys bears a striking resemblance to an American Supreme Court Justice, Mr. Frank Murphy" . . . Replied the churchman: "That man serving as altar boy IS Mr. Justice Murphy!" And it was . . . The rejected Donovan and LaGuardia may be urged to form a vets Bull Moose ticket. That would split N. Y. wide open . . . Russia ultimately plans to offer Germany full independence and alliance. In short, Stalin intends to reinstate his deal with Hitler . . . The British Foreign Office has a long range policy of extracting the highest possible price, in peace, for British assistance in war. In short, and as usual, Britain is our lasting friend—for a high fee. For all practical purposes, murderous Franco may be regarded as under the personal protection of the BFO . . . American business men are avoiding trips into Italy. Returnees say conditions too hazardous . . . The war of nerves in Europe will be followed by a deeper war of nerves in the Far East. The latter is due (this Winter) for its greatest crisis since 1931 . . . When Repubs finish investigating this one it will stifle noses. Directors on the world's largest bank in history—are actually part-time jobs! That shows how disorganized Washington has become Are people weary of war talk? The Eisenhower War Diary, I hear, isn't selling the way the publishers anticipated.

During the recent vacation Hollywood confirmed a tip that ran here six months ago. The blast that the Internal Revenuers would outlaw the collapsible movie corporations, who organize a corporation to make a film and then dissolve the corp to cash in the capital gains. Keeping 75 per cent of the loot and giving Uncle Sam 25 . . . It ran here December 10, 1945, this way: "The capital gains gag is being worked to death. The view of the income tax collector is that too many big shots are trying to convince the Treasury Department that a fixed horse is a gamble."

Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK—I am confident, I hope, that the operators of our hotels, not only in New York but elsewhere, will appreciate a few constructive remarks from a guest apropos the strike of Jimmy Petrillo's musicians here and the extension of that strike to taverns in other cities which are owned by the big chain. We who rent the rooms and are the backbone or perhaps, by now, only the backlog of the hotel industry have been imposed upon grievously.

I hope the hotels and the Musicians' Union never come permanently to terms and that my inn will become again a home away from home and cease to be a combination dance-hall, vaudeville house, night-club and ratrace for disorderly elements.

Throughout the war and for some time before, mine hosts deprived me of my own mean portions of butter, bacon, sugar and scraggly meat to sell it to casuals off the streets who came to dance, drink and marvel in alcoholic stupor at the dexterity of the magician in the honeymoon room or the lunar grotto as he made the ten of hearts hop out of a goblet, to mess up food with their ashes and butts while they sat enchanted by the tough blonde griping hoarsely into a tin can mounted on a pipe and to get babbling drunk.

Mine hosts never reduced the prices of their food but, on the contrary, raised them either subtly by charging outrageously for ersatz and garbage or, frankly, by revising upward the figures in the right hand column, or both.

The house-guest, putting up for a place in which to sleep and have his meals, finds the management preoccupied with amusement business, casual saloon trade, the so-called cocktail traffic for which he provides a gloomy tomb called the "lounge" adorned by stained and peeling old drolleries from the brush of a sign-painter, and an obsession for garish publicity.

Again, the house-guest, dining belatedly after a day's work, finds that the business men's grill and the coffee shop, awful as they are, have been closed since seven o'clock and so, if he takes a chance on the pink elephant room, he finds that he is not a guest but a disciplined inmate, paying extra for certain restraints and responsibilities. He may not receive service, even so much as the salt, while Ollie Twitch and his reefer boys are tearing the atmosphere to bleeding tatters from the platform and some agile mugger with greased hair is twining a boneless female around his neck and exhibiting an impersonal patch of leg meat, hers.

At any rate, he must sit through such violations of the peace and the dignified repose that the tavern normally owes him or go out foraging on the town, wait an hour for room service to bring him cold left-overs in his sleep-room, or go to bed hungry.

The last is the best way. But even then he will turn on the dim little bed-light with the cockeyed shade that clouds even that little light—the war, you know—and read the papers and smoke cigarettes until the degenerate howls of the hot jive from the reefer boys and the braying of the baritone finally die away amid the lunatic prattle of the convention trade, at two in the morning.

There was a time, not long ago, when the American hotel was the proud abode of courtesy, comfort and quiet for the weary wayfarer. By delicate hints I have tried to intimate that what was ain't.

Hal Boyle — Globe-Jotting

By JAMES DEVLIN
(For Hal Boyle)

BAD OEYNHAUSEN, Germany —(AP)—A sign beside the road leading into this British army headquarters town says quite simply:

"Bad Bends
"Bad Surface
"Bad Oeynhausen."

This joshing welcome to a rather cheering little town is only one of the many eye-compelling signs encountered in postwar Germany.

A huge black and white notice outside military government headquarters in Hamburg, intended to reduce noise to a minimum, declares:

"No unnecessary tooting."

The conscientious driver, seeing a pedestrian ahead should finger the horn tentatively and ask himself: "Is this toot necessary?"

In the British officers' club at Bielefeld a sign near the checkroom tells visitors:

"Please unload your revolver before handing it in. Our cloakroom attendants are not expendable."

Apparently it is an old sign, because few officers carry revolvers now unless they are on police missions.

Bridges are among the chief inspirations for sign literature.

On the Berlin-Cologne autobahn, six bridges over deep gorges were blown out in a stretch of a few miles between Bad Oeynhausen and Hannover. Names of the Bailey bridges now replacing them practically tell a history of the war.

There is the "Benghazi bridge" built by the 295th Field company, Royal engineers, "who fought there 2 April 1941." The "Tobruk" and "El Alamein" bridges were built by the same company which fought at each of those famed battlegrounds.

"Marzamemi" bridge also was built by the 295th which "landed there on D-Day Sicily." So was "Pizzo" bridge in remembrance of the company's landing on D-Day in Italy.

"Le Hamel" bridge commemorates the old 295th's landing on D-Day in Normandy.

There are no trees near the "Three Trees" bridge outside Hamburg, nor can any white horses be seen near "White Horse" bridge.

"Journey's End" bridge would be no place to end a trip, for it is in an isolated area with no food or shelter for miles around.

One bridge clearly raised hog with an English weekend for the builders took pains to note on the sign that it was "built on Sunday." A bridge outside Nienburg duly records the statistics that it is "608 feet long."

Signs in the American zone constantly remind drivers that "death is so permanent. Please drive carefully." The British counterpart is an ominous "you have been warned." These are serious signs, because traffic accidents have been one of the chief causes of death in the zones since the end of the war.

Still, it is with mixed feelings that a driver, lucky to make five miles an hour along a torn-up stretch of road near Minden, reads a sign which says:

"Hold your speed to 30 miles an hour."

SOIL PRACTICES BEST IN COUNTY

Geologist Speaks to Kiwanis; Bromfield Guest.

"Soil conservation practices can be seen at their best in Richland county," Prof. Paul R. Shaffer, head of the geology department of Ohio Wesleyan university, said yesterday.

Speaking before Kiwanis club members and their guests, among whom was Louis Bromfield, noted Mansfield author, at the club's noon luncheon in the Mansfield-Leland hotel, Shaffer praised the Muskingum Watershed conservancy district project as "one of the most noble experments ever done in the history of man."

Colored slides illustrated the lecture in which Shaffer pointed out that Richland county is on a divide which allows rainfall to flow both to the Mississippi river and to the Great Lakes The wearing away of Ohio's lakefront as well as the progressive results that have been achieved as a result of the Muskingum project were discussed and illustrated by Dr. Shaffer.

William S. Ross introduced the speaker.

MEET TONIGHT ON INSURANCE

Farmers to Hear Discussion of Protective Plan.

Richland county Triple-A committeemen will meet at 8 p. m. today in the common pleas court room at the courthouse for a discussion of the 1947 wheat crop insurance plan, Guy L. Taylor, committee chairman, said.

The meeting will be in charge of Joseph Wilbert, of Vickery, Sandusky county, crop insurance salesman.

With the Sept. 14 deadline for purchase of wheat crop insurance a week away, only a small number of farmers have made applications at the Triple-A office, Taylor said.

"We felt that many of the farmers have been busy and have neglected or forgotten that the deadline is approaching, so the discussion meeting has been called with the hope of working out a plan to get in as many applications as possible before the deadline," Taylor said.

Wheat crop insurance covers any loss to the crop, except that caused by the growers negligence. The plan is the same as last year with 75 per cent insurance payable in cash at the equivalent premium rate of 1.1 bushel per acre and 50 per cent coverage at .3 bushel per acre.

Called Out Five Times

A flash fire in a tire machine at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company plant, three grass fires and a truck that set off an alarm when it was backed against a box accounted for yesterday's activities of the fire department

The flash fire, caused by static in the tire machine, sent trucks from stations 1, 2, and 4, to the Mansfield Tire at 4:57 p. m.

One grass fire occurred on Dickson Parkway and the other two in Lincoln Heights. Cause of two of the fires is unknown, while burning rubbish kindled the other, firemen said.

The false alarm was turned in when a truck backed against a box at the Westinghouse plant.

CAMERAMAN'S BACK—

It used to be a common sight around the city to see a tiny pony led by a man with a camera who took the children's pictures. During the war years, however, the man with the camera supposedly melted into the assembly lines and the pony was put out on pasture. The pre-war scene was revived yesterday on Newman street, much to the concern of parents and children alike. Leading a tiny, brown and white pony, the man with the camera was back, receiving the same squeals of delight from the children.

PLAY GOOD NEIGHBOR—

In addition to all of their other duties, Mansfield's finest today were pursuing a task given them by the mayor which had all of the earmarks of a good neighbor gesture. The assignment was the result of a letter from a Portsmouth, England, girl asking the mayor to send her the present address of a Mansfield veteran with whom she became acquainted while he was serving in the Army in England. The letter had none of "girl who was left behind" feeling. It stated only that the girl wished to continue her friendship with the ex-GI who hadn't written her since his return. Police Chief Meade K. Bates said he hadn't contacted the youth yet, but would do so. Meanwhile, he and the mayor withheld the ex-GI's name.

COMPENSATION COSTS EXCEED BILLION MARK

Number Near Peak With Little Indication of Drop in Near Future.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — One veteran out of every eight today receives the $20-a-week-for-52-weeks GI jobless pay.

The Retraining and Reemployment Administration, whose task it is to coordinate efforts to refit and reinstate discharged service men in civilian life, blames that relatively high ratio on (1) the inability of veterans to find suitable jobs and (2) their unwillingness to look for work at this time.

This month marks the second anniversary of the 52-20 program and the number of veterans receiving the unemployment payments — approximately 1,800,000—is pretty close to a peak.

What is worrying Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine, a soft-spoken, combat-toughened veteran marine commander, is that the figure has remained pretty steadily at that level since last March.

Approximately 4,900,000 veterans have received one or more GI unemployment payments since the program was initiated in Sept. 1944. This, it was estimated, is approximately 40 per cent of all the veterans discharged to date. The unemployment compensation program alone, one of many providing benefits for former servicemen, cost $1,060,557,036 up to Aug. 1.

More than 43,000 veterans have already exhausted their full 52 weeks of benefit payments. This figure appears relatively small when compared with the total number that has been on the rolls since the compensation program started. But, Gen. Erskine is worried that this figure will rise sharply during the coming months. It's not that he feels veterans are not entitled to the full benefits, but he fears the consequences of prolonged layoffs to men who could get jobs but won't.

He believes veterans should consider the weekly allowances as a form of insurance—something to tide them over until they can get jobs.

Men who prefer to remain on the compensation rolls, he says, are losing seniority and valuable job experience. They're losing the opportunity to build up social security credits. And Gen. Erskine fears that they may become a group of "dissatisfied, disillusioned 'floaters' and 'loafers.'"

The returns for July are only now being studied, but an analysis showed that 38.4 per cent of all new claims for compensation filed in June were from veterans who had been on the rolls, then left to take employment and returned. Indications are, RRA officials said, that this trend is steadily increasing.

KILLED IN WEST COAST ACCIDENT

Son-in-Law of Mansfielders Dies in Auto Crash.

Dr. Robert H. Onstott, 40, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. James, 560 West Fourth street, was killed Wednesday and Mrs. Onstott and their eight-year-old daughter were seriously injured in a traffic accident near Auburn, Calif., it was learned here today.

The accident occurred when the car driven by Dr. Onstott crashed into a road grader which was reported to have turned across the highway in front of the car.

Mrs. Onstott, the former Wilma James of Mansfield, and the Onstott's daughter are in Marine hospital, San Francisco. Mrs. Onstott is reported to have suffered back injuries and severe cuts on her face and shoulders.

Dr. Onstott's body was taken to Denver Colo., his former home, where the body will be placed in a mausoleum

Dr. and Mrs. Onstott were returning from the Hawaiian Islands where Dr. Onstott had been federal health commissioner for three years. He was to have taken a position as chief of the Bureau of Commissioned Officers in the health service in Washington. They were en route to Mansfield to spend a few days before going on to Washington.

Edwin James, a brother of Mrs. Onstott, left by plane last night to be with his sister.

Only 41 of 673 Pre-School Children In Perfect Health

Of 673 children enrolled for pre-school health clinics last spring and summer, Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, reported today, health authorities found only 38 in the city and three in the rural areas without defects.

Of the 566 pre-school children enrolled in Mansfield, 414 showed up for examination. From the rural areas, only 259 attended out of 418 enrolled.

Corrections were made on 245 of those examined in the city and on 105 in the county.

Most prevalent defect was failure to have been vaccinated for smallpox. This accounted for 263 in the city and 212 in the county. Lack of diphtheria immunization was reported for 194 children in the city and 176 in the county. Examiners found 194 with defective teeth in Mansfield and 108 in the county.

Other defects in Mansfield were: nutritional 36; vision, 35; ears, 43; tonsils, 49, and posture, 37. In the county: nutritional, 31; hearing, 15; vision, 26; ears, 40; tonsils, 33; gland defects, 13, and poisture defects, 21.
